Long associated with Wall Street and World Trade, the densely packed southern tip of Manhattan is now becoming a sought-after place to live. Here are eight towers under construction or recently completed in FiDi that offer high-rise living Downtown.

45 Broad Street by CetraRuddy

Set to become the tallest residential skyscraper in Lower Manhattan, CetraRuddy's supertall 45 Broad Street is planned to reach 1,115 feet (340 metres) once it tops out. Thin bronze lines will stretch up the building's slender glass facades, to echo the details of surrounding art deco architecture, and 150 condominiums will be located inside.
